

Port of Lisbon: Why Green Award?

Green Award has become an International recognition on extra-clean, extra-safe seagoing vessels, which is welcome in any seaport.

The port of Lisbon is located in one of the most important conservation estuaries in Europe, with areas incorporated under the terms of the regulations covering the Natural Reserve of the Tagus Estuary.

Thus, preserving this natural resource is a permanent goal for the Port of Lisbon. High quality levels are achieved by increasing the level of safety and environmental awareness of the shipping industry that will contribute to a healthier and better world.

The Port of Lisbon has good technical conditions, well-trained staffs that devote extra attention to quality. These aspects make a difference in the marine environment of some Ports in Portugal and in Europe.

The Green Award contributes to the success of modern shipping, and the Port of Lisbon provides incentives, which are not only for a financial matter, but are the reward in the relationship with business partners.